CARAVAN THEATRE

For the Respect at NTU Day NTSU will be hosting the Caravan Theatre at NTSU.

- It is an interactive production to educate students on consent.
- It gives an unique experience to students so that they can understand sexual consent on campus.
- It educates students' further on respect for others on nights out and how to spot signs of inappropriate behaviour.

This is new for this year and has been successful throughout the country already. A lot of interest has been shown and it is something which can draw attention to all the other things we have going on in the Students' Union.

Terrence Higgins Trust

- They have been brought to the Students' Union every Thursday to provide full sexual health screening as well as on the spot HIV testing.
- This allows our students to keep healthy and be aware of all issues surrounding sex.
- It is also useful to make our students aware of our amazing information and advice team!

SAMARITANS

- The Students' Union have entered into a partnership with Samaritans to be a listening service for all of our students.
- As well as providing volunteer opportunities, it is a well known service which can help students' with countless matters on a variety of subjects.
- They will be holding resilience training within our union as well as providing them for our Social and Wellbeing officers within Sports teams and Societies.
- This will further our Students' capabilities to look after themselves and respect others within their respected groups in the Union and University.

Student Support Services

Julie Wibberley

Understanding the Challenge of supporting students making disclosures of sexual assault.

- Reflecting on national reports and research.
- Identify cases across Student Support Services.
- Retrospective desk top review of cases (what emerged through practice?).
- Gather data and report.
- Identify Themes and emerging priorities.

Themes and Priorities

- Issues with data set and reporting.
- Time of year / first year students over represented in small sample.
- Alcohol.
- Late disclosures.
- Not reported to police.
- Inconsistent response.

Building and improving partnerships

- A series of meeting with our SARC to improve referral pathways and promote better mutual understanding.
- Training for first responders (Residents Assistants, Security, Wardens, Tutors).
- Sharing knowledge developments and exploring ideas across networks (Students Union, University of Nottingham, Rape Crisis, SARC, the Police).

Developments in 2015/16

- Website text to inform and signpost.
- Standardised recording across services for improved data set.
- Agreed and introduced a reporting structure, a single point of contact for advise, consultancy and to coordinate referrals & deliver support.
- We set some KPI's - 100% response within one working day.
- Working with external partners on film for survivor service journey: https://youtu.be/Hk1BCKyy0eQ

Student feedback…

- I would be very happy to meet with you when I am back in Nottingham after Easter. I have also had a look at the information you have sent me, it is very much appreciated thank you.
- The sessions really did help and gave me confidence to pluck up some courage and sort out some immediate demands I was prolonging. I am well, I had another period of time that I was down and didn't attend uni but I'm back again. I've also applied for an extension because I have been trying to catch up and still pass the year.
- The exam went relatively well and I am confident I have passed. Thank you for your words of encouragement, it was a great help.
